

Corrigendum to “Editorial: Pay to criticise? Rebuttal articles in open-access journals should be published for free” published in Web Ecol., 23, 131–133, 2023

Daniel Montesinos<sup>1,2,3,✉</sup>

<sup>1</sup>Australian Tropical Herbarium, James Cook University, Smithfield, Queensland, 4879, Australia

<sup>2</sup>College of Science and Engineering, James Cook University, Smithfield, Queensland, 4879, Australia

<sup>3</sup>Centre for Functional Ecology, Department of Life Sciences, University of Coimbra, Coimbra, 3000, Portugal

✉WE editor-in-chief

Correspondence: Daniel Montesinos (daniel.montesinos@jcu.edu.au)

Published: 24 January 2024

The published article “Editorial: Pay to criticise? Rebuttal articles in open-access journals should be published for free” inaccurately described the content of a cited reference (Dunbar et al., 2022). Two sentences in paragraphs five and six should read, respectively, as follows: “However, other scientists were surprised by the claims and, after careful review, some considered the article to be a misinterpretation of animal behaviour based on a single observation” and “Consequently, the original article remained broadly available to everyone without comment, while a rebuttal article was left unpublished”.